

Patrick Yu

---

2515 Benvenue Ave, Apt 309, Berkeley, California 94704
(714) 651 - 5438

October 18, 2014

Yelp Recruiting
140 New Montgomery St
San Francisco, CA 94105

Dear Yelp:

I'm writing to you to apply to your Salesforce Developer Position for new graduates. This May I'm going to be ending what has been an enlightening experience at the University of California, Berkeley.

I have an interest in this position for a couple of different reasons. First off, I am an applied mathematics major with a computer science concentration. I have a strong background in both Python and Java and have taken multiple classes which required me to use both. Secondly, I background in statistical computing with data where I used R to work with large data sets to analyze what was going on. I communicate with my peers effectively and have been a leader in community service organizations. Finally, one of the biggest reasons I'm interested in working with Yelp is my love for difficult problems. What I learned about myself when attending Berkeley was that I love to challenge myself. I switched into a more difficult major, didn't back down from taking any difficult classes, and did all I could to find a challenge. I want to continue to find opportunities to challenge myself after I graduate, and I think that working at Yelp will be able to provide that for me.

Please feel free to ask me any questions, my contact information can be found here and on my resume. Also, as you probably know, I'm located just across the bay, so I'm just a stone's throw away. Thank you for your consideration and time.

Sincerely yours,

Patrick Yu